The teachers have a clear understanding of children's prior knowledge, allowing for progression and continuity across the subject. Retrieval practice across PSHE allows for long-term working memory to develop during a topic each half term. Knowledge organisers are used to help children retain key information during each PSHE topic. | Learning in a nurturing way Our PSHE curriculum embeds resilience, perseverance and understanding of others thus allowing children to be nurturing to others. The PSHE curriculum explicitly embeds that making mistakes is normal and we can learn lots from the mistakes we make in life. PSHE provides children with a good understanding of how to become valuable, respectful citizens. | Every child recognised as a unique individual Across the PSHE curriculum, individuality is celebrated in each and every topic across all year groups from EYFS to Year 6. Individuality is encouraged through discussion around racism, prejudice, bullying and many more topical issues. PSHE encourages children to be individuals and to celebrate individuality for all. Children are taught that everyone is different and that these differences are to be celebrated, not judged. |
| | Good quality outcomes Good quality outcomes in PSHE will highlight children's ability to be good natured, kind, respectful and understanding members of their community and wider community. Children are encouraged to value the importance of PSHE and why topics are taught in order to achieve good quality outcomes. | Unlimited aspirations PSHE topics across the year groups focus on the possible job opportunities, life opportunities and schooling opportunities that children can aspire to have in their futures. These lessons allow for children to recognise that, in life, there are unlimited aspirations. The lessons teach children that they must work hard to achieve their goals. | Equality embedded in all that we do At St Andrew's, we look to ensure children leave our school as children who recognise equality and can strive for equality, too. PSHE is taught for all and is inclusive for all, meaning that children of all abilities are receiving equal teaching and learning as their peers. Children recognise that we all learn at different paces and the curriculum also reflects this, ensuring for a tailored, progressive curriculum. |
